

circumstances, adjourned the case for a month, without making the order for bankrupt to pay the expenses.

In re ADOLPHUS EDWARD WHEATCROFT AND THOMAS BALLEWY TURNER.—The bankrupts were wire-weavers, of Derby, and this was an adjourned meeting for last examination and discharge.—Mr. J. Moody, solicitor, Derby, appeared for the creditors' assignee and Mr. Leech, of Derby, for certain creditors, the bankrupt not being represented.—Mr. Leech said the bankrupts had not filed their accounts according to an order made by his Honor a fortnight ago, and the circumstances of the bankruptcy were somewhat peculiar. The bankrupts represent that they had property worth £2,423, consisting of machinery and other effects, and he must ask for some accounts to be supplied showing how that sum had been arrived at. The assignees doubtless intended disposing of the estate to the best advantage, and it was
