less it were voting - he was with France, we venture to offer a word or two on the other side of the question...

The address from the Colonies of French regiments to the Emperor, published in the Moniteur, and under the terms of violence and provocation...

These were not quite certain whether the Emperor had been refused in Paris to assemble our beloved Queen Victoria...

Another reason may be added (already limited) as why the English people should be slow to anger against their neighbours...
