

Work Day – 5 September 2015

The weather was fortunately favourable on our very first Work Day. Nobody knew what was going to happen. How would it go? Would anybody even turn up or not? But thanks to our first group of hardworking volunteers – eleven in all (Keith, Sandra, Marjorie, Thelma, Kate, Chris, Peter, Sybil, myself and my two boys, Jonathan and Samuel)

All of them worked really hard and managed to clear a lot of area. For example, moving the slabs away from the fence at the front, picking up most of the broken glass, clearing the weeds and debris, measuring the area for the storage bays, etc.....

Attached below is the plan drawn by Chris Allen which is self-explanatory. If you have any question with regard to the plan or suggestion, please contact one of the committee members.

We will be holding the Work Days on every first Saturday of the month. Please do come and join us! This is one way to get to know your fellow allotmenters, to improve the community spirit and share knowledge!

2nd Work Day – 3 October 2015

What a fantastic day it turned out to be! Although we had grey skies, we also had the determination to carry on with the work. At 9.50am, there weren't many people about except Peter Whelan, Chris Allen, Samuel and myself. A bit of a disheartening start, but slowly people began to arrive. Jan & Keith Lewis, Peter and Nicola James, Stephen Bray, Tony Adams, Jacek Olech with Natalia, Alan & Alex, Marvin and Ronnie Adkin, Keith Horkan and Diane Conner. 18 volunteers! A real good turnout!

Thank you for all the hard work and effort! Everyone had a good time, talking whilst working away, and enjoying teas, coffees and biscuits.

We removed the huge tower of bricks, using some of the bricks as the base for the first storage bay, pulled out a lot of the weeds, picked up the broken glass, scrap metal and plastics, cleared the area in front of the proposed storage concrete shed, collected most of the wood - including the burnt pieces - and put them on top of the bonfire. The compound is looking good already!

A good day's work! Thank you again! Everyone!

We hope to have your continued support for the next Work Day on Saturday, 7 November 2015!

See you then!
