BRISTOL CENTRE – NATIONAL TRUST

A voluntary association founded in 1968 to promote and prosper the work of the National Trust

The Bristol Centre has a large and active membership: its aims are (a) to enable members to increase their knowledge and appreciation of all that the National Trust supports; (b) by means of its activities to raise money to support the national Trust; (c) to enable its members to meet together and enjoy events of common interest.

Activities centre on talks (winter only), visits and social events. Talks cover local history, conversation architecture, historic buildings, natural history, gardens, art and much more. Visits take in great houses, gardens, churches, more modest houses, river cruises, mills, mines, art galleries, exhibitions, etc.
