

Letham has been twinned with Monasterboice since 2000.

How it all began - the legend.

St Buite (or Boice) visited Dunnichen on his way back to Ireland from Rome. At Dunnichen, St Buite finds the Pictish King, Nechtan, has died. St Buite prays over the body of the King and he comes back to life.

The Friendship re-kindled.

It was decided that a good project to celebrate the new millennium would be to re-establish the links between Letham and Monasterboice. In 1998, contact was made between the two communities and Twinning Associations were formed on both sides.

Unveiling of the Millennium Cross

In the year 2000 Letham Millennium Cross was unveiled by the Doherty twins. Also, a time capsule was buried containing objects from Letham and Monasterboice. The Scottish and Irish flags were flown.

Monasterboice marks the new Millennium.

Monasterboice
Dolmen
Erected September 2000
To Celebrate The Turning Of Monasterboice And
Letham, Angus, Scotland
Cannan C  plach Mhainistir
Bhaite Agus A Ceantar

Monasterboice is famous for the Round Tower and Celtic crosses.
People come from all over the world to see them.

