Dear People,

A little while ago I wrote of the love in some of our parish homes felt by those who had lost their spouse. They were aware of their seeming to be still near, small acts of teasing love being played, sometimes vivid awareness of their presence, even occasionally hearing or seeing the loved one. Whatever the explanations, the experiences were real.

Some people spoke of calling out when leaving the house or coming home, imagining the loved ones still there. It is love and some of you were glad to know of those experiences or to know (because you do) that others have them.

This week I tell you of Paul. He is dead now but his elderly mother read of Purgatory and its church explanation of our being with God and longing to be filled with the divine love.

"Filled with the light of God's love", she wrote and of Paul "that he could see 'auras' around people and only discovered when he was a teenager that other people couldn't see what he saw. He could look at someone and see which parts of their body were diseased. A local doctor told me he would have loved to have Paul work for him to help with his diagnosing patients.

"Paul gave me lots to think about and I was especially interested in what he had to say about religion. He said to me once 'You think that all the people at church are good, but there is a lot of dark in there.' I asked him what happens when people go to Holy Communion. He said 'Some people are just dark and others become filled with light.' So I asked him why he thought that was and he said 'the ones that are dark just don't believe it.' I said maybe the ones who are 'dark' need to go to confession and he told me that as an altar boy he had watched people going to confession and 'when they went in they were dark and when they came out they were clear'.

"I've always thought that when we die and stand in front of God who is light, when that powerful light shines on us, it hits the dark spots in us caused by our sins and wow! does that hurt. I think that it keeps hurting until the light dissolves the darkness. While it is agony to have it happen our one desire is to be made light, and even while we suffer the pain of purgatory we are filled with love and hope."

What do you think? God bless us, F_{Y} . John

E POSTBAG E

Dear Father John,

We, of Emoneni Roman Catholic Church, in Mzimba, Malawi, are very grateful for the generous contribution that The Watermead Apostolate, St Joseph's Parish made towards our ongoing work (now flooring) through our brother Anthony. The first church was built in village in the late 50s. The number of Christians has grown over the years hence need to build a bigger church. This is one of the final phases.

We appreciate your continued support. God Bless you always Yours in Christ

Oscar Loti Nkhata (For the Works committee)

Dear People,

Anthony (in the above letter) is our MISSIO contact and they have just written to thank us for our Red Box donations last year. Please continue to support this good work - and MISSIO will be making an appeal in the parish later this year, as they do in every parish about every five or six years.

God bless them in their work. Fr John

PS This weekend Pax Christi is asking us for help. Envelopes for donations are at the back of the church - if you would like to make your own contribution and write a note of appreciation for what they do.

PPS Mary's Meals have written to thank us for our regular support and to tell us that all our donations are being doubled by the government over the next few months. Address donations to: FREEPOST Mary's Meals, writing on corner of the envelope "Double the Love" and include your name and address.

Last week's collection was safely counted and banked. £970 *(Special RASH Collection £96) Thank you. Counters : Karen & Chris (Next week: Terry) *RASH stands for our regular giving for Leicester's Refugees, Asylum Seekers, Homeless.
