

- 1 Turn left then immediately right on to Hospital Fields Rd. You are on Route 66, part of the National Cycle Network (NCN)
- 2 On entering the university grounds turn left, following A16 signs up hill, past the water tower & onto Windmill Lane.
- 3 Traffic lights help you to cross the Hill Rd in to Longford Lane. Single file here. You have right of way but parked cars can be a nuisance.
- 4 Foss Islands Cycle Track. The entrance is on the left of the bridge until about 1980 this was the Duvernay Valley Light Railway - now owned by Swstrans (Sustainable Transport)
- 5 The long road through a housing estate leads to Intake Lane at a T junction. Turn right. Should you want a longer day out, Haggy Wood (Community Wood open to all) is just 1/2 mile to your left on Intake Lane.
- 6 Julia's Garden is a peaceful public garden where you could have your picnic.
- 7 Hassacarr Pond Nature Reserve is another good picnic spot. It is important for birds, dragonflies and water beetles & is managed by Dunnington Conservation Group.
- 8 University Grounds. A zebra crossing takes the cycle route over Hastington Lane. There are many paths & roads which make it confusing. Aim to curve left round behind the huge sports hall going quite a long way back towards Hastington Lane before turning sharp right to reach the place where you entered the university grounds.

Various road crossings make this not a good ride for young children

This may take 1/2 hour to Hassacarr Pond & slightly less back to the Millennium Bridge.
 Allow time for picnic & exploring.
 Approx. 7 miles to Hassacarr Pond Dunnington
 " 7 1/2 miles back to Millennium Bridge.

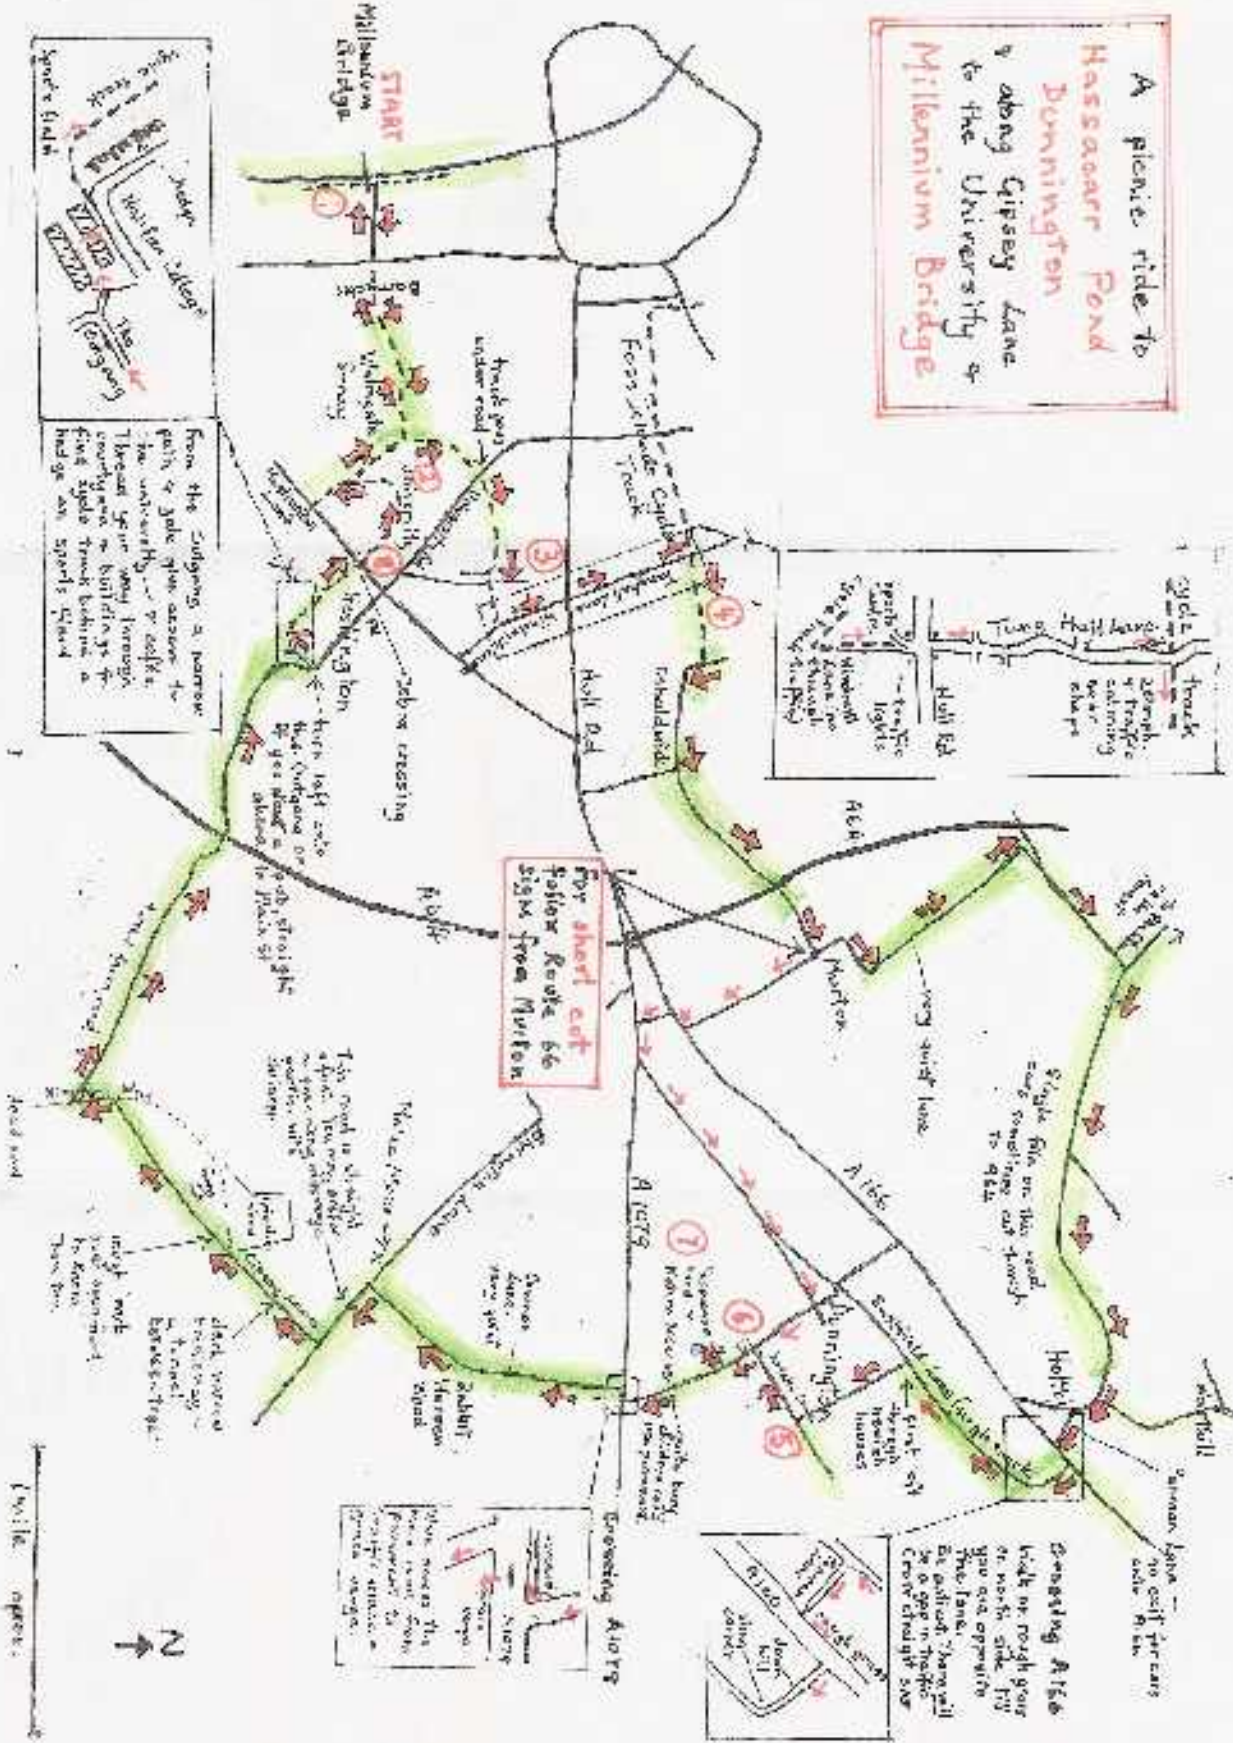

Thanks to members of First Entry Cycling Group for the info. & to Patricia Nelson for the rather colour
 Olga Ferreira
