

National Trust

Nature talk and tea at Lodge Park

Lodge Park, Aldsworth, Gloucestershire, GL54 3PP

One Wednesday per month

Throughout 2018 we will be holding a series of nature talks including afternoon tea, with a variety of specialists. A chance to hear from some knowledgeable individuals, chat to them over afternoon tea and ask questions.

20 June - Roger Mortlock, Gloucestershire Wildlife Trust

18 July - Dr Cathy Horsley from British Bumblebee Conservation Trust

19 September - Dr George McGavin, explorer, entomologist and zoologist

10 October - Dr Pat Morris, President of the British Hedgehog Preservation Society

7 November - Professor Richard Delahay, from the Animal and Plant Health Agency, leading a project on badgers at Woodchester Park

Book online, or by phone on 0344 249 1895

nationaltrust.org.uk/lodgepark

When you visit, donate, volunteer or join the National Trust, your support helps us to look after special places for ever, for everyone.